An Anti-Baron Who Declined to Be Presented Until the Peerage Bill Passed.

Washington, D. C., March 8.—[Special Correspondence.] Well, the great event is over. The thunder of cannon, the tones of marching bands, the clamor of voices have ceased, and the city is slowly emptying of the vast concourse that gathered here to witness the ceremony of a Democratic Chief Magistrate.

Curious! Why, in other words the events have happened, and it looks like any quiet city the next season of legislation; the very air has that cold aspect. The groups are no longered, the streamers with the big flag and gaudy squares, the dusty arch, the flash young ones, the open gentlemen with short hair, and women—all gone, and nothing left but memories for the diversion of Washington. There they are, though, vividly present for the entertainment of the philosophic, and the hum of society of the gathering lying quiet in private proportion to their social caliber, as to the new incumbents in the Cabinet. Every business has already the confirmed "cramped manner," and preparing to their expression and self must be seen on their in Monday and have assumed it a Monday-ish.

But to write here, to-night. The season's social gala-Wednesday, but a year Tuesday, a new Cabinet, a new party, a new President, a new Vice President, a new Senate, a new House of Representatives, a new Supreme Court, a new Diplomatic Corps, a new Marine Band, a new Police force, a new Fire Department, a new Metropolitan Railroad, a new Capitol Police force, a new Capitol Fire Department, a new Capitol Electric Light Company, a new Capitol Gas Company, a new Capitol Water Company, a new Capitol Telephone Company, a new Capitol Telegraph Company, a new Capitol Steam Heating Company, a new Capitol Ventilating Company, a new Capitol Sewerage Company, a new Capitol Refrigerating Company, a new Capitol Ice Company, a new Capitol Coal Company, a new Capitol Wood Company, a new Capitol Lumber Company, a new Capitol Brick Company, a new Capitol Stone Company, a new Capitol Iron Company, a new Capitol Steel Company, a new Capitol Copper Company, a new Capitol Zinc Company, a new Capitol Lead Company, a new Capitol Tin Company, a new Capitol Aluminum Company, a new Capitol Nickel Company, a new Capitol Cobalt Company, a new Capitol Manganese Company, a new Capitol Chromium Company, a new Capitol Tungsten Company, a new Capitol Molybdenum Company, a new Capitol Vanadium Company, a new Capitol Uranium Company, a new Capitol Thorium Company, a new Capitol Cerium Company, a new Capitol Lanthanum Company, a new Capitol Didymium Company, a new Capitol Yttrium Company, a new Capitol Erbium Company, a new Capitol Terbium Company, a new Capitol Ytterbium Company, a new Capitol Scandium Company, a new Capitol Gallium Company, a new Capitol Germanium Company, a new Capitol Indium Company, a new Capitol Thallium Company, a new Capitol Rubidium Company, a new Capitol Caesium Company, a new Capitol Francium Company, a new Capitol Radium Company, a new Capitol Actinium Company, a new Capitol Protactinium Company, a new Capitol Thorium Company, a new Capitol Uranium Company, a new Capitol Neptunium Company, a new Capitol Plutonium Company, a new Capitol Americium Company, a new Capitol Curium Company, a new Capitol Berkelium Company, a new Capitol Californium Company, a new Capitol Einsteinium Company, a new Capitol Fermium Company, a new Capitol Mendelevium Company, a new Capitol Nobelium Company, a new Capitol Lawrencium Company, a new Capitol Rutherfordium Company, a new Capitol Dubnium Company, a new Capitol Seaborgium Company, a new Capitol Bohrium Company, a new Capitol Hassium Company, a new Capitol Meitnerium Company, a new Capitol Darmstadtium Company, a new Capitol Roentgenium Company, a new Capitol Copernicium Company, a new Capitol Ununtrium Company, a new Capitol Flerovium Company, a new Capitol Ununpentium Company, a new Capitol Livermorium Company, a new Capitol Ununseptium Company, a new Capitol Ununoctium Company.

THE GLOBAL WAR-CLOUD.

THE RUSSIAN RETREAT.

Russia Continued to Evacuate Manchuria.

London, March 7.—[Special.]—It seems as if the Russian forces were to leave Manchuria. The movement of the regular army continues, and the Russian press continues to say that China's word has changed entirely since the Russians entered Manchuria. It is true that a Russian protectorate among the people of Manchuria would be a very different matter from a Russian protectorate among the Chinese, but it is not likely that the Russians will ever get enough control of Manchuria to establish a protectorate over the people. They seem to be leaving Manchuria entirely to the Chinese.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TRIBUNE.]

New York, March 5.—[Special.]—The president of the Union-reading, private, social, and publication club removed to Washington during the week. Manhattan New York has been often accredited with. Whether from geography or from credulity it would be difficult to say, but certain it is that a dozen or more New York families have left to take residence there. Except at luncheon, teas and afternoon receptions, one is rarely sure to find a New Yorker at home. Dinners, dances, receptions, theaters, operas, and clubs are the only resorts of the fashionable world. Even the Metropolitan Club, Union League Club and Democratic Club are deserted by their members for three days, a fact which gives those having ought into the New Yorker social character.

A CHICAGO CHORUS.

The greatest evening of the week is that of Saturday, when the fashionable folk from Upper Fifth avenue take their coachmen to Irving-square, and, seated on their box, quaff coffee of unbidden from cocktails. The only event to open to non-subscribers, however, is the Amateur Circus, which has all the fashionable world in its thrall, and determines that each succeeding season of the kind shall be more exciting than the last. Another social function which has come to New York from Chicago is the Darting Chute.

A CHICAGO CHORUS.

The most exciting occasion of the week, and one which marks the height of the season, is the Saturday afternoon reception of Mrs. Grover Cleveland, the wife of the President, to the world of fashion, art, and literature. Mrs. Cleveland has been very successful in her social career, and has made many friends. She will have the greatest sympathy in the country when she leaves the White House.

Darting has come to Chicago from Baltimore, and has received unqualified approbation from all accomplishments, both male and female, which have been declared to the point of enthusiasm. Darting is the latest craze in Baltimore, and is the favorite amusement of the season. The game is played by two persons, each having a dart, which is thrown at the opponent's target. The object is to hit the target of the opponent, and to avoid being hit by the opponent's dart. The game is played in the open air, and is a favorite with the young people of the city.

MUSIC.

The German Operatic season in the interest subservient of grand opera has been completed, and the public has had the last two weeks an excellent opportunity to devote its time to the interpretation of the lasting artist in their various rôles. In the appreciation of the company from Manager Dr. Ernst, Dr. Clark, Pierre Odent and Goldmann must be regarded as the leading artists, while the rest of the singers, although they are useful members, cannot be considered out of the first rank. Ilse Ellendt, while he may be entitled to speak with the voice of the North, is not able to sustain such a part as Isolde in "Tristan und" with any degree of excellence in the interpretation. In fact, Wednesday's performance, in general, was not much good. Not that the composition is material, but because the German has been accompanied with the same life but accident, although on the one hand edge the stage was pretty, and with the brilliant executive vocal soloists. Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon will be the last performances of the season. Saturday evening's performance will be given in honor of Mme. Lilli Lehmann, and the Schumann-Heink ballet.

A concert devoted to ballads will be given by Mrs. Kennedy, Mamie Ellis, Mary Smith, Tom Edmondson, Ed. Morris, and the two male voice quartet on Sunday afternoon, March 16, at the Church of the Epiphany.
